

Independent Study (IS): This program is offered to students experiencing extenuating circumstances which inhibit their ability to attend school daily. These students meet weekly with credentialed teachers and complete CRP coursework to meet graduation requirements. Students can complete up to nine classes (45 units) each semester. (Limited credit recovery)

Students return to their home school or enter another Pollard High School program as soon as they are able. Students who do not find success in IS are counseled to register in another program or to return to their home schools.

Extended Day (ExDay): This program supports students who must work full-time in order to meet their personal financial responsibilities. Many live on their own; many help support their families.

The evening hours of ExDay enable students who work full time to complete their high school education. Students work a minimum of 25 hours per week, attend a five-hour class one night each week, and complete CRP coursework. Work Experience classes are an integral part of the ExDay program.

Our Mission

We seek to support students who work, who are behind in credits, who have challenging family situations, who have made mistakes, and who have made a real commitment to graduate from high school.

Lee V. Pollard High School is not a comprehensive high school and does not have all the services and resources of a comprehensive high school. We are restricted by California Educational Code, by Board policy and available resources in some regards:

- Regular Program, Academic Learning Center (ALC), and Extended Day (ExDay), serves only juniors and seniors.
- Special Education services are limited.
- Regular Program offers limited English Learner support.

Fundamental to all Lee V. Pollard High School programs is the Credit Recovery Portfolio (CRP), a standards-based independent study package tied directly to district materials and resources. It is this portfolio that allows students to complete coursework and recover credits.

Counselors develop with each student an individual education plan. Together, they consider high school graduation, college, and career goals. Counselors and teachers work closely with each student to complete all required classes.

Also available to students in all programs is the district's distance learning program—"OdysseyWare." Students can complete courses from their home computers or in a classroom lab setting.

Regular Program: The majority of Pollard students are enrolled in this program. It is designed to accommodate students who do best in classes with teacher-directed instruction. Students are enrolled in six academic classes and a homeroom class. Students are in session from 8:00 AM until 1:30 PM and attend classes on a rotating block schedule. This program is best for credit recovery.

Students makeup missing credit by completing CRP courses. Additionally, students can be enrolled in work experience, CNUUSD's Adult Education Program, local community colleges, and the county's Regional Occupational Program.

Several student groups foster social, cultural, and personal growth. Our Associated Student Body (ASB) and Unity groups help build student interest and increase student involvement. Various clubs and support groups are active on campus.

Academic Learning Center (ALC): ALC is a hybrid independent study model that allows students to work at their own pace to complete CRP classes enhanced with computer-based assignments. Two credentialed teachers and one paraprofessional are available to answer questions and assist students toward their goal of high school graduation. Students attend 180 minutes daily and complete 20 hours of homework each week. Students can complete up to nine classes (45 units) each semester. (Limited credit recovery)

This schedule is beneficial to many students who do not function well in a traditional classroom setting, who have jobs, or have personal or family concerns.
